The Beryl Institute is a global community of healthcare professionals and experience champions committed to transforming the human experience in healthcare. As a pioneer and leader of the experience movement and patient experience profession for more than a decade, the Institute offers unparalleled access to unbiased research and proven practices, networking and professional development opportunities and a safe, neutral space to exchange ideas and learn from others.

We define the patient experience as the sum of all interactions, shaped by an organization’s culture, that influence patient perceptions across the continuum of care. We believe human experience is grounded in the experiences of patients & families, members of the healthcare workforce and the communities they serve.

As we close 2022, we do so with hope and inspiration, deep reflection and new insight, coupled with lingering questions, the need for healing and a true commitment to purpose. To say 2022 was a year that was deeply personal to so many, for so many reasons, only scratches the surface of a year that caught many of us by surprise. 2022 was a year we were going to move past the heights of the COVID pandemic. It was a time to look forward, and as you will see in all the actions that cover the pages that follow, we did move forward, as a community. But we must also acknowledge we did not move forward easily. This was not caused by how we connected or supported one another, but rather by the realities that the world unfurled right in front of us.

As a community, we looked to gain back our breath, to refocus our commitments and realign our intent. Yet at the same time, healthcare was, as I wrote earlier this year, buffeted by the perfect storm. We have been faced with waves of incivility and societal strain, an exhaustion blanketing a diminished healthcare workforce, financial pressures on our organizations’ operations and more. These are the realities we faced. But I can say proudly, as individuals and organizations, we have worked, and are still working every day, to tackle these issues. In doing so, we have found much more than solace in our community. We have found a spirit and energy in the face of all that says it should not be there. One that has inspired us forward.

When you see what this community has built together, it is grounded in the fundamental idea that we are working every day to transform the human experience in healthcare. And in doing so, we must acknowledge our own humanity. This has been a year when we have been there for one another, as much for a shoulder to lean on as we have in sharing resources to learn from. We have tackled weighty issues at the heart of the Declaration for Human Experience itself, that we must dismantle disparities, care for our healthcare workforce, and listen to and act on what matters to the patients and care partners who turn to healthcare for help every day.

On the following pages, when you read about the actions of our community members, the contributions of our boards and councils, see the papers written, research shared, ideas elevated, we must acknowledge all that is underneath. That is our commitment in this community to first be human beings caring for human beings. This commitment has had us thrive with a global lens as voices from every continent contributed to our conversations and actions and in their native tongue. The voices of our Global Council shared what human experience means to them, hundreds of members of our community joined in conversation circles on shaping a global experience measure framing a relevant and comparable set of questions that can help identify where organizations are excelling around the world. Global Affiliates have emerged as regional organizations on multiple continents have grown, translating experience efforts at local levels. This commitment to sharing and growing has not stopped even in the face of what may have slowed us down.

That remains the magic that I have seen in our community in the twelve years we have grown together. That even in the toughest of times, we find a lifeline in one another. That even in the face of the greatest challenges, we support each other in finding the right answers for the moments in which we find ourselves. In this generosity we have created a space to breathe, to heal. Together we have committed to transforming the human experience in healthcare with an unwavering dedication to each other.

That is what you will find reflected on the pages that follow. This is not just an incredible list of what has been done by the thousands of members in our community. Rather, it reflects what we have done together. And if this is what we have accomplished in some of the most trying times we have faced, I cannot wait for what lies ahead on our journey.

Thank you to all who made what follows a reality. Thank you to all who call this community home. We still have good work to do. And I am forever grateful we get to do it together.

Our shared experience through the pandemic has shifted the foundation of healthcare forever, exposing systemic weaknesses and wounds that can no longer go untreated.

Healthcare professionals and organizations have strived to respond to the needs of patients and the communities they serve with compassion and clinical excellence. Even as hospitals push beyond capacity, the challenges of adequate staffing and supply levels persist and exhaustion is overwhelming the healthcare workforce.

At the same time, the devastating impact of systemic disparities, inequities and injustices remains painfully apparent, effecting the essential issues of access to care, affordability and quality outcomes.

These issues, that lived just beneath the surface well before the pandemic, come with a heavy price. They call for a fundamental shift in thinking and direction.

We are now at a critical inflection point. There is no normal to which to return; and those who slide back to old ways, either intentionally searching for the comforts of the past or due to lack of clarity on how to push forward, are likely to become obsolete in our new world.

This reality calls on us to forge a new existence that begins with looking beyond the distinct silos of patient experience, employee engagement and community health, to focus on the common thread that binds each of these areas together—the human experience.

By elevating and transforming the human experience in healthcare, we can create a more effective, responsive and equitable healthcare system that results in better experiences and outcomes for patients of all backgrounds, a more supportive, energizing and collaborative environment for healthcare professionals and healthier communities that break down barriers to care.

We are called to lead courageously with the understanding that we are, first and foremost, human beings caring for human beings. In answering this call, we commit to:

- Acknowledge and dismantle systemic racism and prejudice, tackle disparities and provide the highest-quality, most equitable care possible.
- Understand and act on the needs and vulnerabilities of the healthcare workforce to honor their commitment and reaffirm and reenergize their purpose.
- Recognize and maintain a focus on what matters most to patients, their family members and care partners to ensure unparalleled care and a commitment to health and well-being.
- Collaborate through shared learning within and between organizations, systems and the broader healthcare continuum to forge a bold new path to a more human-centered, equitable and effective healthcare system.

In making this declaration personally and publicly, we stand for all we can and must be in healthcare. In aligning our words and actions to move this cause forward, we commit to transforming the human experience in healthcare for all patients, the healthcare workforce and the communities we serve.

Advocacy

In 2022, PXPF continued its efforts by expanding advocacy efforts and for the first time providing direct resources that individuals and organizations can use to inform themselves and community with key policy makers.

The Patient Experience Policy Forum (PXPF) is a broad-based coalition of healthcare organizations and patient and family advisors engaged in advocacy and action to give a greater voice in healthcare policy to those working to improve the patient and family experience.

In 2022, PXPF maintained a focus on issues critical to both patient and family partnership and patient experience measurement and reporting. In both areas, PXPF workgroups worked to:

- Meet with CMS leadership and staff
- Identify supportive communities and promote priorities within The Beryl Institute
- Identify supportive patient/consumer groups that can advocate for priorities
- Expand our policy efforts with other trade associations and survey vendors
- Encourage interagency collaboration to support a focus on patient experience priorities

Measurement efforts dug deeper into issues with the intention of:

- Making publicly reported data more transparent to all stakeholders
- Increasing use of narrative in patient experience data collection and reporting
- Standardizing and supporting the collection and reporting of Racial/Ethnic/Language (R/E/L) and Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity (SOGI) data

The final item underlines a clear focus on our core commitment of the Declaration for Human Experience in being able to understand and address issues of inequity and health disparities.

Patient and family partnership efforts redoubled efforts to ensure the issues and challenges of restricted visitation and caregiver presence at the bedside was not an issue that remerged as the presence of COVID continued.

In addition, the production of a Telehealth Policy and Advocacy toolkit became a major deliverable in 2022 providing background information on the critical need for telehealth in our new healthcare world, identifying the policies and bills that might impact it and providing direct resources for individual and organizations to address these policy issues.
Connections

As a global (and virtual) community of practice committed to elevating the human experience in healthcare, we also believe the opportunity for connection, learning and expanding our conversation must be sustained. The Institute continued to provide a variety of virtual connections for the community to engage and network with others, share ideas on how to improve the patient experience and gain perspectives from other likeminded individuals.

PX Connect 2022

We were excited to see our online community PX Connect continue to provide an opportunity for members to exchange ideas, share resources and connect with one another.

We have a total of 30,950 active registered users with PX Connect accounts. In 2022, there were 759 new discussion threads/conversations and 2,074 posts.

Top Ten Discussion Topics:

All participants had the opportunity to earn up to 43 CE credits for keynotes and breakout sessions with an opportunity to watch on demand replays up to 30 days after the event.

Presenters comprised the voices of patients, families, caregivers, hospital executives, physicians, consultants, nurses and industry leaders sharing proven practices, innovations and strategies. Sessions were categorized by the eight strategic lenses of the Experience Framework:

- Culture & Leadership

- Innovation & Technology
- Patient, Family & Community Engagement
- Quality & Clinical Excellence

In addition to gatherings from our Patient Advocacy, Physicians, Ambulatory, patient and Care Partner and Pediatrics communities, the Volunteer Professionals Community held its first in-person meeting, bringing together volunteer professional leaders and staff from across North America.

To support engaging more patients and family members in the overall patient experience conversation, we were excited to offer four scholarships to ELEVATE PX for patients and family members actively engaged in improving healthcare as well as to all members of our Global Patient and Family Advisory Board.

Of note, the group explored the critical conversations on how people structure experience efforts and the implications of and actions needed to address the visitation issues elevated during the pandemic year.

XLC members also coauthored the Patient Experience Journal article, Measuring what matters: A proposal for reframing how we evaluate and improve experience in healthcare, that catalyzed the year-long community effort to explore the potential for a global experience measure. Consumer Perspectives on Patient Experience in the U.S.

In 2022, we were excited to release three issues of PX Pulse.

March - The first report continued to track the impact of COVID-19, revealing consumer perspectives on such topics as comfort in returning to seek care, issues influencing their decision-making, visitation policies and experiences with healthcare incivility.

June - The second report focused on the core questions we have asked from our start and continues to explore the impact of COVID-19 on consumer perspectives overall.

November - The third report revealed the challenges the healthcare industry faced as the world learned how to operationalize the realities of the pandemic. Specifically, the findings shared consumers’ perspective of quality of care and experience in healthcare.

With an expanding interest in the field of patient experience, we continued to support the consistent and continuous development of patient experience professionals by providing relevant and community-developed learning opportunities for all stages in patient experience journeys.

PX Pathway

Shaped by the contributions and learnings of our community, these foundational frameworks provide a path to guide and assess your experience journey. Whether you are just getting started or are advanced in your efforts, each framework offers strategic concepts, suggests practical actions and links to applicable resources to support your work.
Patient Experience 101 (PX 101) equips healthcare organizations with a foundational, easy-to-use learning package to support and enhance your culture of excellence by building patient experience knowledge and skill for all employees across an organization.

It has been exciting to see engagement grow since PX 101 became available in July 2018 with 75 organizations using this educational resource. Organizations continue to explore this exciting resource and are in various stages of the implementation cycle.

Introduction to Patient Experience

In late 2022, we introduced a new program to educate, inspire and motivate the healthcare workforce.

Included with organizational membership, Introduction to Patient Experience supports your staff and clinicians to better understand core concepts associated with patient experience. This ultimately increases your organization’s ability to improve experience for those giving and receiving care.

This on-demand learning program includes three modules:

- What is Patient Experience?
- The Ripple Effect of Patient Experience
- Connecting to Your Purpose

Each module provides 20-30 minutes of storytelling, reflection and quick activities to keep your workforce engaged while learning core patient experience concepts.
Emerging Leaders

The Emerging Leaders Program was designed to help participants operationalize the eight lenses of the Experience Framework. Two cohorts with a total of 41 participants enjoyed a 4-week program in which they engaged in a deep dive of the eight lenses using a variety of Institute resources while also learning from and collaborating with their PX peers.

Foundations of Volunteer Management

Designed for those new to volunteer management or those looking for ways to enhance a current program, Foundations of Volunteer Management (formerly Principles of Volunteer Management) is a 4-part virtual workshop covering foundational aspects of leading an effective healthcare volunteer program.
